I am pleased to help connect you to the wealth of opportunities and services available from government agencies and nonprofit organizations outlined in this Community Resource Guide.

Within its pages, this guide offers something for everyone, including information on county libraries, parks, recreation programs and facilities; senior centers and services for seniors; services for children; crisis services and other resources for our neighbors in need, such as food pantries, clothing closets and shelters. I hope you will keep this valuable guide handy throughout the year.

In closing, please join me in thanking the many employees and volunteers who provide these services and programs to help all our citizens lead full and productive lives.

Harford County Health Department
1321 Woodbridge Station Way
Edgewood, MD 21040
410.612.1779
www.harfordcounty.md.gov/health
HOP is a nursing service of the Harford County Health Department. Services include locating community resources, completing referrals, identifying barriers in the community, follow up visits, agency coordination and patient discharge adherence. Staff accepts referrals from discharge planners for hospitalized individuals over the age of 18 who are at-risk for long-term placement. The program’s registered nurse provides information about available community resources and identifies barriers that prevent the client from returning to the community. Enrolled clients are either presently eligible for Maryland Medicaid, or who would be eligible within 180 days after a nursing facility placement.

ChesapeakeMommies.com offers a simple way to connect with local moms for friendship, support and fun. Members meet on our forums to share information on everything from where to get the best haircut to tips on transitioning to a “big kid” bed. Each month, they also offer many face-to-face events for members, their children and their families.

Harford County Commission for Women
Department of Community Services
125 N. Main Street
Bel Air, MD 21014
410.638.4739
www.harfordcountymd.gov

The Commission for Women is comprised of 15 volunteer members that assembles, analyzes and disseminates information to help meet the needs of women; studies conditions that demonstrate inequalities and unmet needs; and recommends procedures and legislation to remedy inequalities. Promotes a positive image of women and helps to provide recognition of their accomplishments. The monthly meetings are open to the public; all are welcome.
