RE: Support - 2021 Harford County Councilmanic Redistricting - Proposal to Combine the Cities of Aberdeen and Havre de Grace into the Same Council District:

Chairman Sidik and the Honorable Members of the 2021 Harford County Councilmanic Redistricting Commission:

I support the proposal to combine the Cities of Aberdeen and Havre de Grace into the same council district. The Cities of Aberdeen and Havre de Grace are contiguous communities with shared common interests and resources. The proposed plan would reestablish the council districts in a manner in which districts are compact, contiguous, and substantially equal in population.

Please understand that your decision will have a long-term impact on how my family, my community, and myself are represented on the Harford County Council and the Harford County Board of Education.

As a resident of Harford County, I support the proposal because it will lead to stronger representation, stronger communities, and a brighter future for Harford County.

I respectfully request the commission support the proposed plan and urge the commission to reestablish district F in a manner in which the district is compact, contiguous, and substantially equal in population and includes the municipalities of Aberdeen and Havre de Grace.

Respectfully,

Paula Casagrande
Resident & Business owner in Havre de Grace

Subject: Redistricting

I attended the Redistricting Commission meeting last night and notice the attached map that they put up on the TV screens. The numbers were very interesting as they now show District A numbers and all the other Districts and shows we are the largest populated District in the County by far. The map now shows that District A should now have the adjustment that we could not make about 10 years ago when I was on the Council. The numbers than would not work though many people within the District would like that to happen. That is if you look at the map of District A to the north you will see a piece of land that goes up into Abingdon that we call the "Panhandle". It clearly does not belong in District A as they have little to nothing to do with Joppatowne or Edgewood. It even looks peculiar when you look at the map. However I understand, from going through this process, that the numbers must work. I believe they now will. District A has 45,987, a 2,409 person growth, District B has 42,834, a -744 person decrease also District C has 41,785 a - 1793 person decrease and finally District F has 41,467, a - 2,111 person decrease. I use these District because they either touch this piece of land or are very close. Districts B or F would be the logical choice. That would make Distinct A approximately 41,987 and Distinct B 46,834 or District E 45,467. Given the number of 4000 people that live in the "Panhandle", according to the Redistricting Commission. I spoke at this hearing last night and made the Commission aware of this unbalance. They did say they were looking at this and were trying to make it work, but there were a lot of people who live in that area that made it difficult. However if District A can live with 45,987, why can't another District? Please send this to the Redistricting Commission as I don't have there email addresses.
